Dear Sir,

I really don't care what most of the residents think, when I brought the house there were no waiting restrictions in place outside my property. By doing so now you are devaluing its price..... also I will need have to spend £3000 block paving my lawn in order for me and my friends and family to park on during the day.... I guess as it's not outside your house you really have no interest. So you'd welcome a similar restriction outside your property..... I don't think so!!!!

I have someone coming to fix my washing machine at 12.00 today. Could you please inform me what arrangements I have to make in future!!.

You guys really need to stop listening to the 'Majority' and start listening to individual needs. If you took time to look around the close now you will see that the 'parking problem' that some suggest is not so apparent. People pay their road tax. The road is not the property of individuals!!!.

Anyway ..... you really didn't answer any of my previous questions, so the point of your reply was what exactly????

As mentioned in my previous mail..... please could you ask for those in charge or reimbursement for the cost of developing my front lawn to contact me!

Dear Mr Butler,

Thanks you for taking the time to respond to our letter. Most of the residents are in favour of option 1 and this is what we will be taking forward as a proposal.

The order for these waiting restrictions will be advertised in the East Anglian and notices will be placed on the lamp posts in Broad Meadow. We are not sure of the advertising date but is likely to be next month.

You will have an opportunity to formally object to the proposals when we advertise the order. The notice will explain how to object to the proposals.

Objections are considered by a committee of county councils and decided upon by the Portfolio Holder for Roads, Transport and Planning.

Yours sincerely

Anthony

Dear Sir,

I am writing to post my point of view on the proposals regarding restricting the parking in Broadmeadow.

Once again may I add that I don't want to see any restrictions in the road, in fact I dead against it. When I brought the house 18 years ago there was no restrictions and I would not have done if there were. By restricting parking you are devaluing my house and will expect compensation accordingly, this or you pay the £5000 to block pave my drive way..... It's as simple as that.

We have friends who visit during the day.... tell me where they are going to park.... you're in fact in stopping individuals from visiting during certain times..... Isn't it prisons where you have restricted visiting times?????

Could you please pass this on the those who deal with compensation for the devaluing of my house and also for those who will pay for my drive to be done..... Obviously you can tell that option 4 would be better.... the one having less impact.
